This Week's Travel Log

Our learning targets for the week are:

- I can tell the value of combinations of coins.
- I can show amounts of money with the fewest number of coins possible.
- I can identify a dollar and know its value.
- I can express amounts of money using dollars-and-cents notation.
- I can read and write whole numbers modeled with base-10 blocks.
- I can use a variety of strategies to add and subtract 2-digit numbers.
- I can describe an animal's needs for growth and survival and explain how its habitat meets those needs.
- I can read and write base words with -ed and -ing endings.
- I can compare and contrast two things or ideas. I can show how they are alike and different using a Venn diagram.
- I can write and illustrate a story about an experience I have had that will become my Young Author's Book.
